

For immediate release

June 2, 2011

Press Contact: Erin Foley
Marketing/PR Coordinator
(708) 496-4752

Queen of Peace High School Honors Four-Year Athletes

Twenty-four Queen of Peace seniors were honored for their four-year commitment to the Peace Pride Athletic Program. The athletes were recognized for their devotion to their respective sports at the Class of 2011 Honors and Awards celebration May 9.

“These four-year athletes have spent an extraordinary amount of time at practices after school, as well as on Saturdays and holidays, traveled on buses and participated in competition while representing Queen of Peace,” athletic director Darlene Graf said.

Four-year athletes for one sport: Sara Szulczewski – basketball; Caitlin Farbin – soccer; Nicole Sedlacek – soccer; Sarah Stang – soccer; Lauren Carrington – softball; Madaline Cozzi - softball; Jessica Kelly – softball; Amanda Krch – softball; Stephanie Rich – softball; Stephanie Carter – tennis; Jordan Richardson – tennis; Stacie Seweryn – tennis; Erin Yurko – track and field; Lindsey Frederick – volleyball; Jessi Mainczyk – volleyball; Katherine Mullen – volleyball; and Kara Scully – volleyball.

Four-year athletes for two sports: Caitlin Hecker – basketball and softball; Caroline Kocher – cross country and track and field; Erin Kolasinski – cross country and soccer; Sonia Shahin – basketball and softball; Claudia Smith – basketball and track and field; and Dana Testa – golf and softball.

Four-year athlete for three sports: Jessica Risley – basketball, cross country and track and field.

####

Photo Captions:

Senior Jessica Risley was a three-sport athlete at Queen of Peace in basketball, cross country, and track and field.

A group of Queen of Peace High School's four-year athletes display their plaques following the Class of 2011 Honors and Awards Assembly on May. 9.