Peace's Poverty and Hunger Task Force Volunteers at Greater Chicago Food Depository

Members of Queen of Peace High School's Poverty and Hunger Task Force visited the Greater Chicago Food Depository on Nov. 4. Along with Poverty and Hunger Task Force moderators Judy Zitlow and Kristine Owens, Peace's young women participated in a "repack session" at the Food Depository's warehouse to repack bulk product to individual/family size, assemble boxes with assorted food and label product.

The following 13 students volunteered at GCFD: Marissa Cruz, Stacy Diaz, Lauren Juarez, Meagan Juggan, Sam Linden, Jasmin Lizardi, Alicia Medina, Kelly Morrissey, Kelli Peyronet, Betsy Rivera, Jelena Robinson, Marlene Sandoval and Bethany Villarruel.

Peace's Poverty and Hunger Task Force is dedicated to planning school-wide activities to raise awareness of poverty and hunger issues, as well as reaching out to other schools regarding national and local justice issues. Peace volunteers at the Greater Chicago Food Depository several times each year.
