Queen of Peace to host Personal Tour Night

Queen of Peace will host its final Open House of the year – Personal Tour Night – on Jan. 6, 2010 at 6 p.m. Junior high young women and their families will take a one-on-one personal tour just days before the Entrance Exam to learn about Peace’s rigorous college preparatory program, more than 40 co-curricular activities and clubs, nine sports, hi-tech wireless campus, 1:1 laptop program and new Interactive Videoconferencing Center, as well as course offerings in biotechnology, business entrepreneurship, computer repair, digital photography, pre-engineering, robotics and much more.

Peace’s Personal Tour Night will feature a welcoming atmosphere in which visitors will get a complete understanding of every facet of the school. Technology, tuition, transportation and athletic representatives also will be available to discuss topics ranging from the laptop environment, to scholarships, to private busing. Peace administration and faculty members, as well as current Peace students, will be on hand to share their experiences.

As an all-girls Catholic high school and values-centered community sponsored by the Dominicans of Sinsinawa, Peace provides a cutting-edge teaching and learning environment that is designed to help young women develop the communication, collaboration and leadership skills they need to excel in an increasingly global and competitive world.

To learn more about Peace, log on to www.queenofpeacehs.org or attend Personal Tour Night on Jan. 6. For questions, contact Recruitment Director Rosemary Sexton at (708) 458-7600, Ext. 292 or sextonr@queenofpeacehs.org.
