Archdiocese Honors Peace Students with Awards

Several Queen of Peace students were recognized May 1 at the Eighth Annual Vicariate V Youth Leadership Awards Dinner at the Lexington House.

“These young women were nominated for taking a leading role in Catholicism and promoting the Dominican values of the school,” said campus minister Kathleen Greenan. “They have gone above and beyond in their efforts to be of service. Their involvement in Campus Ministry and in school leadership has not gone unnoticed.”

Congratulations to the following students:

Bobbi Benegas – Prayer and Worship; Erin Yurko – Prayer and Worship; Katherine Mullen – Prayer and Worship; Lindsey Frederick – Prayer and Worship; Dana Testa – Prayer and Worship; Stephanie Rich – Peer Ministry; Kelly Morrissey – Peer Ministry; Brianna Hovanec – Peer Ministry; Mary Kate Murray – Advocacy; Nicole Holmes – Advocacy; Sara De Van – Community Life; and Arianna Villarreal – Service and Social Justice.

Students received a certificate of recognition and appreciation, as well as a mug and a cross blessed by the interim Vicar for Vicariate V, the Reverend John Upton. The Vicariate V Youth Leadership Awards recognize and affirm the outstanding youth leaders of the parishes and high schools within the Archdiocese of Chicago.
