

Peace Women...Think, Read, and Lead with Pride

Why attend an all-girls school?

In our all-girls environment, you will:

- *Acquire a more positive attitude about learning
- *Challenge yourself with more science, math, and technology courses
 - *Explore strengths and interests
- *Gain the skills necessary for higher education opportunities
 - *Gain confidence in leadership abilities
- *Possess a positive self-image and feel free to be yourself
 - *Study with teachers who know how girls learn best
- *See yourself and your classmates as students, leaders, athletes, actresses, comedians, journalists, and multi-talented individuals!

"Before I got to Peace, I didn't know that I could become a doctor, lawyer, or scientist. I never knew I could travel wherever I wanted. I had no idea I could be successful and be in control and responsible for anything good that would happen to me. I learned that I could be a powerful girl, and one day, a powerful woman," 1994 Peace graduate and University of Chicago Neuroscientist Elise Covic said (St. Symphorosa). Want to be part of these amazing statistics? Peace did it for Elise, now let Peace do it for you! In all-girls' schools, girls take over all the positions of leadership in the school whether it's drama, sports, yearbook, or debate team. Because of the all-female learning environment, these young women are more likely to continue on and excel in math, science and athletics. Statistics show that girls who attend all-girls high schools have a higher percentage of math-related majors in college compared to the combined percentage for both boys and girls who attended co-ed schools.

Sources

Begley, Sharon, "How Men and Women's Brains Differ," Newsweek, Volume 125, Issue 3, Page 48.

"Benefits of Attending a Girls' School." The National Coalition of Girls' Schools, 2004. Posted at <http://www.ncgs.org/type0.php?pid=16>

Rowe, Ken. "Boys and Girls Perform Better in Same Sex Schools." Keynote address at the National Conference of Co-Education, posted at http://www.acer.edu.au/news/MR_pages/MR_singlesexschools%2020.04.00.html

Sadker, Myra and David. Failing at Fairness. New York: Charles Scribner